Patrick Donovan (1971)

Helena High School

Inducted 1994

Pat Donovan earned both state and national recognition in three sports for Helena High School - football, basketball and track. He earned All-State honors on both offense and defense in football, was an All-State basketball player and won six first-place medals at state track meets. Donovan led the Bengals to the state championship basketball game both years he attended Helena High. Donovan was a unanimous selection to the all-tournament team both years. Donovan went on to become a two-time All-American defensive end at Stanford University. He was picked by the Dallas Cowboys in the 1975 draft. Donovan was a starter at offensive tackle with the Cowboys, a co-captain and was a Pro Bowl selection. He played in three Super Bowls, X, XII and XIII.
